

Gray Matter

*The first gray hair you barely see,
The second one you hide,
The third is still a novelty,
A cinch to brush aside,
But then the snow starts making tracks,
With new streaks every day,
And you are forced to face the facts:
You're prematurely gray.*