

My Spare Lady

*A woman may cut calories
At any given time if she's
Just chanced to step on someone's scale
And found that she's no longer frail,
Or if she happened to espy
Her own rear view as she walks by,
A husband's quip could start her thinking,
How many sodas she's been drinking,
All these, admittedly, add stresses,
But nothing hurts like last year's dresses.*